

A comparison table generation and display technique for use with a knowledge-based comparative information dissemination system is provided. The technique enables system users to generate a comparison table containing information related to the knowledge domain to which the system is directed in such a way as to most easily compare the differences between various aspects of the domain. In addition, the technique enables users to generate a comparison table containing information related to the same aspects of the domain over different time periods.